It aimed at Value-based education aims at training the student to face the outer world with the right attitude and values. It is a process of overall personality development of a student. It includes character development, personality development, citizenship development, and spiritual development. 2. The session started with an activity that we have to think about what are we thankful for today? Teaching gratitude to children is important, it is one of important ingredient to be happy. How to be the picture of gratitude in our life? Teachers can bring in a lot of evidence. Gratitude is passing to notice and appreciating the things that we often take for granted. There are different ways to teach gratitude like donate, be grateful, be patient, journal, thank those who serve you, encourage them to help, talk to them, practice saying no sometimes, encourage reading books that promote gratitude.
Ms Supriya Singh	1.08.21 25.08.21	1. Story Telling in class Room 2. Blooms taxonomy and its applications		1. 1 Hour 2. 1 Hour	1. No 2. Yes	It was an enriching session in which the mentor gave insight on Blooms Taxonomy right from when, why and who created it considering the different stages of knowledge a child has. From what he knows to how to apply and create. Each and every aspect of every step was explained. As a facilitator all the learners should be kept in mind while mentoring.

Storytelling as a pedagogy		1 hr 1 hr	Not yet Will get certificate after the assessment.	1. It was a wonderful session by the resource person Ms Mandvi Tripathi. She incorporated the term 'Power of Gratitude' in the session. She shared that if one wants to be happy and spread happiness one should have gratitude within. She also pointed that we should teach the children to be grateful and not take things as granted. If a person is happy it will affect one's physical and mental health in a positive manner. 2. The resource person started the session by defining the term value. She added that if a person does not possess values, he will be a liability to the nation rather than being an asset. If our values are clear there is no confusion in taking decisions. Values are firm beliefs and ideals held by a person which determine his/her thoughts and actions. These are the guiding principles which provide basis for individual choices in life. Story telling is the best method to teach values to the children. Overall, it was a fruitful session.
